

One-Act Plays:

The Phone Call by Kayt C. Peck

Gays in the military becomes a very personal topic as Tamera deals with the pending arrival of the conservative Kansas parents of her lover, Lieutenant Commander Rhonda Thompson. Rhonda is absent, called away to temporary duty. It's all fun and games as Tamera jokes of the situation with her best friend, Tony, until the phone rings. The caller, asks for Rhonda's "next of kin," but refuses to provide information to anyone who is not family. The arrival of Martha and Bob Thompson takes on a new urgency as they all await a promised call, one that can only be made to Rhonda's "real" family. The playwright can be contacted at flyingpigs@aol.com or by calling 505-454-0060.
